

HEALTHCARE LAW IN THE FEDERAL COURTS

presented by

THE FEDERAL COURTS LAW REVIEW

Federal Courts Law Review
at the Charleston
School of Law
81 Mary Street
Charleston, SC

Healthcare law has drastically changed this year with the enactment of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA), the lawsuits initiated by the states challenging the constitutionality of the PPACA, as well as the recent ruling by a federal judge in Virginia that the provision requiring Americans to buy health insurance is unconstitutional. This symposium provides a comprehensive review of the PPACA and how it affects different aspects of legal practice as well as a constitutional analysis of the bill and how the Supreme Court may approach the issue.
